TWENTY THIRD YEAR.

LANCASTER, KY., TUESDAY, DECEMBER 24 1912.

NUMBER 38.

40 Cents PER POUND

The Danville Tobacco Warehouse Company
Breaks All Records for the Year Over Its Floors.

This House Has Made a Wonderful Record This Week---For Three Straight Days It Has Only Touched the High Spots.

Highest Floor Average, Highest Individual Average and the Highest Priced Single Basket, Which Is a Record To Be Proud Of.

The Averages Given below Are Eye-Openers for the People Who Have Tobacco to Sell Over The Danville Breaks.

This House Has The Largest Floor Space South of the Kentucky River in the State of Kentucky Unloading Capacity Unsurpassed---Stable Room for 200 Horses.

SQUARE DEAL AND COURTEOUS
TREATMENT GUARANTEED ALL

Henry Bright and Allen Hieatt, President and Secretary, respectively, of the Danville Tobacco Warehouse Company; (located on Walnut street,) are two of the happiest men in Danville. Why? Because they have made records at their warehouse, that eclipse anything that has yet been accomplished in the local tobacco business and which justify this exuberant feeling. For three straight days last week this house made the highest floor average, the highest individual average and the highest priced basket of the week was sold over its breaks. It brought 40cts per pound. Is this not a record to be justly proud of? This house has been greatly enlarged the past season and now has the largest floor capacity of any house South of the Kentucky river in the State of Kentucky, with stable capacity for 200 head of horses. With a square deal accorded to all and ever courteous treatment on the part of the management of this house, its business is steadily increasing. Its auctioneer is regarded as one of the very best in the whole country and he never lets a basket go until it has brought every cent it is worth.

Whole Crop Averaged $26.40

Mr Reuben H. Bronough, of Lincoln county, broke all records this week when he sold his crop of tobacco at this house for an average of $26.40, his best basket bringing 40c per pound. This tobacco is said to have been the best seen in the State for the past five years.

Follow the crowd to the Danville Tobacco Warehouse and sell your tobacco and go home with a smile of satisfaction on your face.

Following are a few of the best averages of the week:

DANVILLE TOBACCO WAREHOUSE CO.
DANVILLE KENTUCKY.

Was ever a prettier day than Sunday seen in December?

Father O'Dwyer of Richmond held Catholic service at the home of Mr. N. Miller this (Tuesday) morning.

The mark down sales held by the Lancaster merchants immediately preceding Christmas proved a material assistance to Santa Claus.

The various loose leaf tobacco markets will conduct no sales until January 2d, but they will be open for the reception of tobacco as usual.

The banks will be closed and the postoffice will observe holiday hours tomorrow (Christmas day) but the rural carriers will make their deliveries as usual.

We have endeavored to get the name of everyone who was "home for the holidays", and all the visitors in town, but because of going to press early some may have been overlooked. Telephone us your personals and we shall be glad to publish them.

Trial Postponed.

The examining of Mr. S. H. Estes which was set for last Friday in Richmond was postponed because of the inability of Mr. Porter Wearren, who was cut in a fight with Mr. Estes last week, to appear against him. Mr. Wearren is in The Gibson Sanitarium where he is receiving every attention, and while his condition is yet serious, it is thought that he will pull through all right.

Pine Knot Wins.

The court of appeals has decided that there was "no election" in the struggle between Pine Knot and Whitley City as to which place was the county seat of McCreary county, holding that the election should be held on some regular election day in November. In the election from which the appeal was taken Whitley City won, and the decision of the court is looked upon as a victory for Pine Knot.

Abandons Tripod For The Law.

Mr. George W. Boner of Nicholasville, one time editor of the Nicholasville Tribune, was examined at Irvine last week and was duly admitted to the practice of law, and is now well on his way to a seat on the supreme bench. George is a Garrard county boy, a son of the late John A. Boner of the Marksbury neighborhood, and we wish him all the success in the world in his new pursuit. He will probably practice his profession in Nicholasville.

Stand Pipe Material On The Ground.

All of the material for the huge water tower to be erected in the rear of the postoffice is on the ground, the foundation is already completed and the contractors claim that it can be completed within thirty days. However, it is not probably that the actual work of erecting it will be commenced until after the holidays, as the workmen for the job will be sent here from Pittsburg Pa., and there are more than likely to want to spend their Christmas at home.

Wets To Contest.

The liquor interests of Somerset will contest the signal victory of the prohibition people recently won in the county election. Their allegations will be irregularities in the petitions. The prohibition sentiment is very strong in Pulaski county, and we are very much of the opinion that it is needless for the saloon people to go against the inevitable, unless they are merely playing for a little longer lease of life for the saloons while they grasp every imaginable technicality, for in the long run the prohibition people are sure to win out.

County Schools Close.

The majority of the county schools, in fact all which began in time and were not interrupted by sickness or some other cause, closed their term on last Friday, and pupils and teachers may enjoy the holidays to the utmost, secure in the knowledge that school is out for this winter.

The schools of the county have had an unusually successful year, more interest being evinced by both teachers and pupils than ever before and the country school is fact forging its way to the front as an educational factor. The course of study has been broadened, the facilities have been increased, more care is taken of the buildings and grounds, proper acoustics are furnished to assist the pupils in the pursuit of their studies, the teachers as well as the pupils have become students and every possible effort is being made to make the country school a flower for good in the cause of education in the county.

There is a vast difference between the country school teacher of a decade ago and of today; then a certificate, either 1st 2d or 3d class was all that was necessary to teach. Now a country school teacher must keep abreast of the times in educational matters, or she will soon find herself unable to secure a school. In consequence during the interim between schools the teacher takes steps to perfect herself for the position which she holds, she attends chautauqua gatherings, institutes, and last but not least goes to Normal school and takes a course and uses every possible effort to make herself better fitted for the application of the more modern methods of teaching.

We Have Noticed The Fact.

A representative of the Dowie printing house of Chicago was here this week, soliciting orders from local business men. We noticed that those who send their printing orders away from home are usually the first who want their home printer to "keep something out of the paper" for them--and he usually does.--Interior Journal.

Takes Vacation.

Mr. Clay Pumphrey, the gentlemanly operator at the Colonial Theatre, will leave this week for a week's visit to relatives in Ohio and Indiana. Mr. Pumphrey has had charge of these machines for some time, and to his efficiency is due the lion's share of credit for the splendid entertainments at the Colonial. During his absence, another good operator will be on hand.--Danville Messenger.

Drawings Attract Large Crowds.

The distribution of prizes was held by Mr. J. W. Smith on last Saturday afternoon, and at the appointed hour an enormous crowd gathered around the front of his place, all in eager anticipation, each and every one feeling confident that their ticket would get one of the offered prizes. The number first drawn corresponded to the coupon held by Mr. J. S. Johnson Sr. which entitled him to a two horse Studebaker wagon valued at $75. Mr. Johnson having no use for the article immediately put it up at auction, it bringing him $72.50.

The ticket calling for the second prize, a bicycle valued at $50, was held by Mrs. Harry Crutchfield.

The 3d prize, $35.00 in gold went to Mr. William F. Parsons, 4th prize, $25.00 in gold to Mrs. Ocie Sisk of Lancaster. 5th prize $10.00 in gold, to James Martin and the 6th prize, $5.00 in gold, went to John N. Ross the meat market and groceryman.

After the awarding of prizes by Mr. Smith was finished, Mr. R. H. Batson gave away a trunk, the holder of the lucky ticket being a colored man who works for the Garrard Milling Co.

Merry Xmas.

The Record is out a day early this week because of the fact that tomorrow is Christmas day, and we wish to each and every one of our friends and patrons a very Merry Christmas and a happy and prosperous New Year.

We have with this issue served you during the current year with fifty two issues of the Record, just how good, just how readable, we will leave you to say, but we are happy in the consciousness that we have done our best, that we have published these issues with "malice toward none and charity for all", taking care to publish nothing that would add needlessly to the care or pain of our friends and neighbors, refraining to say aught but what was good of anyone, and in the event we were not able to say something good, preserving silence.

The force of the Record have worked faithfully during the year 1912, each and every one of them doing cheerfully and well whatsoever was in their power to assist in the successful publication of the paper, and to each and everyone of them we extend the seasons greeting and hope that the meager holiday which we are able to spare to them from their duties may prove enjoyable to them.

Judge George M. Davidson, One Of Lincoln County's Most Distinguished Sons, Dies At His Home In Stanford.

Judge George Mosby Davidson died at his home in Stanford on last Wednesday morning and his remains, after funeral services at the Methodist church, of which he had long been a member, were placed at rest in the Stanford cemetery.

Judge Davidson was taken seriously ill at Silver Creek, where he had for some time been on duty as a U. S. storekeeper and gauger, and his condition becoming alarming, he was taken home, arriving there in an unconscious condition on Tuesday afternoon. Judge Davidson was 57 years of age at the time of his death.

Judge Davidson was a unique figure in politics of the Eight Congressional district, an uncompromising old line republican, he held the distinction of being the only republican ever elected to Congress from the district, he having defeated Hon. John B. Thompson of Harrodsburg in 1896. There was never a political gathering of any moment in the district but what Mr. Davidson was to be found in the forefront fighting for the principles of his party. His last political act was as an elector, espousing the cause of President Taft, and went down in defeat, though fighting gamely for that principle which he espoused. Mr. Davidson was a man of the highest integrity, and had a host of friends in the state, irrespective of party affiliation. He had held many offices of distinction, including that of County Judge, at the hands of his home people, and they loved him for his many noble traits of character. He also served as Assistant District Attorney for the Eastern District of Kentucky. Judge Davidson is survived by two brothers, Dr. R. L. Davidson and Thomas Davidson, and two sisters, Mrs. J. C. Florence and Miss Lizzie Davidson.

We wish you a

Valedictory.

With this issue I shall retire as the editor of The Central Record; having disposed of my interest in the paper. In doing so I desire to state that my connection with my associates in the work has been pleasant and cordial and I can only wish a successful and useful future for the paper and its management. I desire also to extend to the public generally my most grateful thanks for the support that has been given me in my efforts to produce a good weekly newspaper for Garrard county. I also acknowledge the many kindnesses and courtesies shown the editor and its management by the press of the state and extend good wishes to all and more especially to the newspapers of neighboring counties. Wishing a larger and greater field of usefulness for The Central Record and greater and more extended prosperity and happiness to the citizenship of Garrard county, I am, with great respect,
Your most obedient servant,
Green Clay Walker.

"A LITTLE CHILD WAS BORN".

How many of us stop to think when we are celebrating Christmas what it means? To the great majority it is just "Christmas", a time to make merry, to exchange gifts, and to enjoy to the fullest. But few ever stop to think that it is the natal day of Him who came into the world to save sinners, who suffered and died upon the cross at Calvary.

The Christmas tide is upon us, Christmas for every body, the rich and the poor, the high and the low; bringing gladness and joy to the hearts of the majority, but to many only grief and sadness, grief that they are not able to celebrate the joyous time in a fitting manner, that they are not able to provide their loved ones with gifts and presents as bountifully as their more fortunate neighbors; grief that they are not able to fill to overflowing the row of little stockings that hang against the mantel, their owners sweetly sleeping in fond anticipation of what

"Old Santa" is to put in them.

In the midst of your jollification and merry making, in your preparation for giving to your loved ones the number of gifts which you have contemplated, it will add to your measure of happiness if you will remember that there is in the world many who will waken on Christmas morning to a view of empty stockings, stockings which Old Santa has failed to visit, and that in consequence there is many a tot who is sadly, oh so sadly, disappointed, and when this intelligence dawns upon you, remember that "it is better to give than to receive", that you could easily and without curtailing the pleasure of your own loved ones, bring a little happiness into the hearts of these unfortunate little ones. Then from the abundance which has been granted unto you help them, see that their Christmas is not a cheerless one, see that they do not awake to find their stockings empty, see that Old Santa makes them a visit. Remember that these little ones are His especial care, that it was of them He said "suffer little children to come unto me", and that any kindness done to them will meet with His unqualified approval.

This is "Christmas Eve", tonight every little child in this broad land will hang up its stocking, and each and everyone of them will go to its cot confidently believing that good old Santa will pay them a visit during the night. Give the matter a little consideration, digest the foregoing facts, lay aside your selfishness, it will not be hard to think of some family whose hearts would be gladdened by a little more than their meager purses are able to provide for the yule tide celebration, if you are not able to think of some one, apply to any one of the good women who are in touch with the unfortunate class, who are accustomed to seek out and assist those who are needy and in distress, and they will only too gladly tell you of someone to whom you can bring gladness. Then before you wend your way to your own comfortable home, laden down with your own Santa's pack, see to it that these less fortunate people are not allowed to go unprovided for on the morrow.

Do this and see if you do not more thoroughly enjoy the "Merry Christmas" of your own merry brood on the morrow, enjoy it all the more because of the happy consciousness that you have added to the pleasure of someone less fortunate, have enabled someone who but for you would not have been able to provide their little ones with a "Merry Christmas", and in the doing of this, rest assured that you will gladden the heart of Him whose anniversary we celebrate on Christmas day.

With the next issue of the paper, Mr. J. E. Robinson will begin his duties as the editor of The Record and Mr. R. L. Elkin as the business manager. Both these gentlemen are too well known to the citizens of the county and friends of the paper to need any introduction. Mr. Robinson has been connected with the paper since it was sold by Mr. Louis Landrum several years ago, and we have been associated with him for the past three years. During the time that we have been associates in business, there has been no interruptions of harmony and friendship and now as we turn over the paper to him we can say that our relations have been pleasant and we wish for him success in the work. Mr. R. L. Elkin as the business manager will, we predict, make one of the best, and he will hope add many new subscribers to our list and secure a good portion of advertising for the paper, as well as write many good news articles.

During the past two years, Mr. Geo. Smith Jr. has written for the paper and we desire to say that he is a good news-paper man and has rendered us valuable services. Mr. L. N. K'iller has been our foreman during the entire time of our regime and as a compositor is not to be equaled. Our entire force has been faithful in their work and it is with some regret that we sever our association with them after the first of the year.

Congressman Owsley Stanley, after a conference with his friends and a careful survey of the situation, has announced himself a candidate for the U. S. Senate to succeed Senator William O. Bradley.

With ex-Governor J. C. W. Beckham already an announced candidate for the office and the probability of there being other candidates yet to announce, the race promises to be a warm one indeed.

A Snow makes it look like Christmas sure enough.

County Court.

A fairly good crowd came in for county court Monday but the entire crowd seemed imbued with the Christmas spirit and very little business was transacted, and when the snow began falling early in the afternoon the crowd made an early start for home.

There was very little stock on the market and no sales made worthy of mention.

Madison Tobacco Warehouse Co.

In this issue of the Record we are glad to have the advertisement of the Madison Tobacco Warehouse Company of Richmond. This Company has built a new Steel Structure perfectly lighted and with a capacity of 300,000 pounds daily. They have also installed a new electric prize plant in the old Warehouse which is joined to the new one with a viaduct. With this prize plant can be turned out and easily handled as much as a hundred and fifty hogsheads daily. They have stable room for 200 horses, barn room for 150 loads at a time, and with as near perfect facilities for handling tobacco as can be found any where. This company has sold well up near a million pounds up to this time, at the best prices that they have ever gotten before, with three electric prizes going they can easily clean the floors and makes competition keener and better because the tobacco can be gotten out of the way and handled. This company gives a square deal to every way, and are perfectly reliable in every way, and they especially solicit the tobacco from Garrard County, as they believe it is the best grown in the State.

Ben Embry Former Lancaster Negro Killed In A Terrible Battle with Officers At Dante Va.

Ben Embry, who with five other negroes, was accused of the murder of Deputy Sheriff George Hart near Winchester on the 24th day of November, was killed by detective Mosby of Roanoke Va. at Dante Va. on Dec. 16th. The detective surprised Embry in a boarding house in Dante, and covering him with his revolver commanded him to throw up his hands, which he did; the officer then proceeded to search him, and when he attempted to take a bottle from Embry's hip pocket, Embry grasped his hand which held the pistol in both of his hands and a terrific life and death struggle began, each striving to overpower the other and avoid the death which was inevitable to the loser. The battle lasted five minutes when the officer, still in Embry's grasp found his revolver against the negroes breast and pulled the trigger; still his hold was not broken and presently another opportunity presented itself and Mosby sent another bullet crashing through Embry's head the last shot killing him. The body was brought to Winchester, where it was positively identified. A telegram was sent to Middlesboro to his father Frank Embry to know what disposition should be made of the body; the reply came collect and was accompanied by any funds and read "Send Ben Embry to Lancaster and bury him", signed "Frank Embry". As the officers of Clark county were unwilling to incur any expense in the matter and no funds were available, Embry's body was buried in the Potters field in Winchester on last Thursday afternoon.

Ben Embry was born and raised in Lancaster and was a grandson of "Aunt Mag" Hiatt, a respectable colored woman who lives here. His father Frank Embry, lives in Middlesboro and was once in the saloon business there amassed a considerable sum of money, but has, so we are informed, lost it all, Embry was never in trouble while he lived in Lancaster, He reached his young manhood here and then went to live with his father in Middlesboro, where he fell into evil ways, and was in innumerable scrapes, and we understand has served one term in the penitentiary.

New Grocery Salesman.

Mr. Stephen A. Walker of this city has accepted a position with the well known grocery firm of Williams and Martin of Lexington, having for his territory the counties of Lincoln, Madison, Jessamine and Garrard. He will enter upon his new duties January 1st.

Automobile Line To Lexington.

We are reliably informed that an automobile line from Lancaster to Lexington is to be started in the near future. In fact the initial trip is to be made this week. The people behind the movement are the same parties who have been running a line from Richmond to Lexington, utilizing for the service an immense Packard car, with a capacity of 35 passengers. Nothing definite as to prices or schedules has as yet been settled upon, and will not be until the car arrives and they make a preliminary trip over the road.

The institution of such a service would prove a great accommodation to the people of Lancaster and people living along the route.

Better Train Service To And From Lancaster Via The L & N Is The Object Of A Visit Of Local Men To Lexington.

President John M. Farra of the Garrard county Development Association and Dr. W. Mc Elliott were in Lexington last Friday where they were in consultation with Pres't. Bailey T. Berry and Sec'y. S. H. Clay of the Lexington Commercial Club and General Agent Frank Carr of the L. & N. They came home very much encouraged, feeling that with the cooperation of the commercial bodies of the various towns interested they may be able to achieve valuable results.

The object of their visit was a very much needed improvement of the train service between points on the K. C. division and Lexington. As the schedule now is, a very disagreeable change is compulsory at Winchester to make connection with the C. & O. often necessitating a long and tedious wait, and if you are going to Cincinnati, a change must be made at Paris, in other words, people going from Lancaster can reach neither Cincinnati or Lexington without a change of trains.

The change of schedule desired and hoped for is to have L. & N. train No. 39, which leaves Cincinnati at 2:30 p. m., to leave there about 4 p. m. and run as a fast train to Lexington, then as a local to Winchester, to Richmond and thence to Rowland; returning leave Rowland, or whatever terminal point they may choose on the Knoxville Branch, about 5 a. m., run as a local to Lexington, thus giving us a through train into Lexington in the early morning, and then run as a fast train into Cincinnati, reaching there about 10:30 a. m. which will also enable us to go into Cincinnati without change. This train carries a buffet parlor car and would enable early morning passengers to secure breakfast before reaching the cities, and to have supper on the return trip on the train. This service would be of special value to tourists going to and from Crab Orchard springs. Another change which is greatly to be desired is that the schedule of train No. 37 from Cincinnati, Lexington to Knoxville undergo some changes which will give travel from this end of the line an opportunity to make connection for Knoxville, the south and east.

If the L. & N. could be brought to see the desirability of these changes it would be a matter of great convenience to the travelling public who are compelled to travel to any extent, as the present accommodations are anything but good, and are rendered all the more unpleasant by the necessity of changing cars and the accompanying tiresome waits. It is sincerely to be hoped that every town along the line interested will lend their cooperation, and through the cooperation of the Lexington people, which will be heartily given, great improvements in the way of train service may result.

We have just received a large line of china, that we are selling at a reduced price at Ball's.

Foul Deed Committed Near Bryantsville

Colored Man Shot And Tied Under His Wagon.

The dead body of Tim Peters a colored man about 40 years of age was found near his home on the turnpike leading from Bryantsville to Buena Vista on last Saturday night about 9:30 o'clock. The man had a hole through his head evidently made by a pistol bullet of about 38 calibre. When his body was found it was near the tail end of his spring wagon to which his horse was attached and showed evidence of having been tied to the wagon and dragged. This evidence is also borne out by the fact that signs are visible on the turnpike of a body having been dragged for a distance of nearly three miles, and blood splashes showing along the road from down near Hickman to where the body was found. Further investigation developed the fact that the dead man had another pistol wound in the top of his head, evidently made after he was down.

Coroner Jones accompanied by County Attorney J. E. Robinson and Deputy Sheriff C. A. Robinson went to the scene Sunday and the coroner held an inquest, the verdict being that the man came to his death from a gunshot wound at the hands of some unknown person.

Mr. C. A. Robinson spent the better part of Sunday in the vicinity of the crime and made a thorough investigation of the matter, and thinks he has in his possession clues which will ultimately result in the apprehension of the assassin. Mr. Robinson took up the trail, by means of blood spots and the signs of dragging, and followed them to within a mile of Hickman, where he found signs of a struggle, and from the indications he is inclined to the belief that the man was killed at that point, and from the fact that his hat was found beside him where he was found, is of the opinion that the men who committed the crime accompanied him to the place where the body was found. This theory is further borne out by the fact that a rope which showed evidence of having been dragged, was found coiled up in the spring wagon. Peters was seen at Hickman about 7 o'clock in the evening when he had four quarts of whiskey, purchased about 65 cents worth of groceries and drove on toward home, 3 Mode Kavanaugh who lives further up the road toward Bryantsville also saw Peters and says he was drunk and had the whiskey and groceries. When the body was found, there was a tin bucket with less than a quart of whiskey in it in the wagon and no evidence of any groceries.

There has been much lawlessness in this portion of the county in the last few years, and Deputy Sheriff Robinson is determined to put a stop to it. He has interviewed everyone who saw Peters immediately preceding his death has found several parties who heard a number of pistol shots in the vicinity of where the killing is supposed to have occurred, and with what evidence he has he proposes to make a determined effort to run the guilty party or parties to earth.

MORE NEWSPAPERS IN UNITED STATES

And American People Are Greater Readers Than Any Other Nation of the World

There are more newspapers printed and read in the United States in a single year than in all the rest of the world combined. It is for this reason that our citizens are the best informed of any other people. In the old European countries, or among the Asiatic nations the ordinary man of the middle or lower class knows but little outside of his immediate neighborhood and the information about his neighborhood comes more by word of mouth than and reading he may do.

Americans want to know what is going on in their town or county, or in their state and nation but in addition to that they want to read about the new republic in China, or the Balken war in Europe. With these desires they must have in their home a newspaper. Not only do the men folks but the women folks as well like to see what is going on in every place in the world and the modern newspaper publishes something that is interesting to every member of the family. The men of the house can get the prices of gains the prices on stock, tobacco and anything they sell from the market page of the newspaper. They can read of politics form the telegraphic news. The women will find not only the general news in which they may be interested but much that is moving in the world of fashion how the great and the rich dress and how the poor and well-to-do. Our forefathers of fifty years ago had none of these advantages.

The Lexington Herald is offering a mail rate of $5.00 per year which rate will be in force until January 15, 1913.

MAKING UP A QUARREL

By C. OSCAR CARSON.

"There's no pleasing a man!" Mrs. Simpson's tone was pained rather than angry. Then she turned to leave the room.

Simpson went on reading his paper instead of making any withering remarks. She hesitated, her hand on the doorknob, and then turned toward him.

"I've tried so hard, ever since we've been married to please you!" she said. "I've tried to make the home as pleasant as possible—and I just can't satisfy you!" She waited, her mouth set in a line of pain, her eyes fixed reproachfully on her husband.

"Now," remonstrated Simpson, patiently, "what's the use? I just happened to suggest that the steak might have been slightly more tender."

"Tender!" Mrs. Simpson clasped her hands. "Once a man's married, taken a girl from her happy home, promised her everything in the world he proceeds to connect the word tender only with beefsteak! Some people's hearts are tender enough."

Simpson finished the column he was reading. "What did you say?" he inquired, politely.

"I gave up going away this summer," his wife mournfully went on, "so that you might be comfortable. I've stood over the hot stove baking in the hottest weather so that you might have good food!"

"Now, my dear," said Simpson, "did I ever ask you to bake in the hot weather? Haven't I always said emphatically that I detested hot food in hot weather? Haven't I asked time and again that we might dine in a cold fair once in a while, and—"

"That's it! I simply can't satisfy you! Whatever I do is wrong! You always want just what I haven't done!"

"But, great Scott! If it's unbearable for you to stand over the stove and cook hot things, since it's unbearable for me to eat them after they're cooked, in the name of all that's sensible, why not choose the bearable alternative?"

"That's right! Scold me, if you want to!" She wiped her eyes carefully. "That's what wives are for. Things for men to vent their wrath on! And after I've passed the whole morning working for you—sorting all your things and cleaning up the den—"

"I've asked you a thousand times to let those things alone," broke in Simpson, impatiently.

"Oh, I know you'd not be pleased. But it's something to know that I've been doing right, even if no one appreciates it. If I should die—and I get tired very easily, as I discovered when I ran up to the den so often and back to the basement with things—"

"Have you been carting my things to the basement? Well, of all!" Simpson swallowed some extra words. "I've only taken out the things that you never use—saved you a lot of work. But, never mind." She sat down and pressed her forehead suggestively. "My head is simply hammering. I never could stand to be found constant fault with, and it's telling on me. My nerves are almost shattered!"

"I'm surprised that you haven't lamed yourself with a sprained ankle going up and down stairs! Are you sure your heart isn't acting up, after all your exertions?"

Mrs. Simpson put her head down on her arms and sobbed once or twice, quietly. Then she wiped her eyes and arose slowly. "I see you can't bear to have your wife around, so I'll go up to my room," she said. "And," she added, turning toward him a look of meek submission, "I mended all your old socks today, too."

"Well, send them to the salvation army," replied her husband, gruffly. "I've been trying to get them darned for a month and finally gave it up, and you know I bought a lot of socks last week. Why on earth did you decide to do the mending after I quit needing it done?"

"Well, I found time to"—she watched him longingly and sighed. "Harry," she exclaimed, "why are you so cross to me?" She rushed over to him. "Tell me you're sorry," she pleaded, "and I'll forgive you everything. I can't bear to quarrel with you. You are sorry, aren't you, dear?"

"Yes, yes—you're in my light!" he replied, as he put away her encircling arms and picked up his paper. "Oh, it's so good to be friends again!" sighed Mrs. Simpson, happily.—Chicago Daily News.

Irish National Color.

The color officially recognized for Ireland is blue, St. Patrick's blue, and that was anciently and honorably recognized as the Irish color. In the royal standard of the United Kingdom the quarter blazing Ireland shows this field of blue as the back ground for the golden harp with its silver strings. The ribbon of the Order of St. Patrick is of the same blue. The green is the revolutionary color and is quite modern. Some antiquarians maintain that the earliest flag of Ireland was of orange, long antedating the more recent factional use of that color.

CLUBS WERE TRUMPS

FROM JUDGE.

He looked like a gentleman gone to seed. Though patched and frayed as to clothing, he was immaculate both in dress and person. He sat upon the kitchen doorstep, shelling peas. His expression betokened reconciled despair.

"Be so kind," he said meekly, but emphatically, "as not to utter the word club to me, sir. The inducements that could tempt me to join any kind of association whatever do not exist."

Before saying more, he glanced apprehensively over his shoulder. Then he explained in a low tone:

"To clubs are due all my misfortunes; and I endure sufficient, I assure you. When I was a young man—and that seems centuries ago—this village passed through an epidemic of clubs. How or why the pestilence broke out, no one knows. But suddenly every one was forming them, joining them, canvassing for them."

There was the Farmers' club, the Housewives' club, the Card club, the Glee club and a score of others. Every organization had its badge, and some of my neighbors proudly wore five or six.

"At that time I was just young enough to know all about life, and I was certain that it offered no prize like personal liberty. Consequently I was a confirmed bachelor—and rather prone to boast of it, I fear. My associates were all young men who proclaimed loudly that they scorned the female sex. Each had been most cruelly rejected by some false-hearted charmer, and when they organized the Bachelors' club the receipt of one rejection at least was made a qualification for membership. I was eager to join, but this excluded me."

"Isn't there a way to get around the rule?" I asked. Lon Pendleton, president.

"No," he replied. "We mustn't begin that way. Don't try to get around it—just qualify."

"Propose to some one?"

"Certainly."

"Suppose I am accepted?"

"You needn't be afraid of that," he replied; then, noticing my look, lamely added, "select some one who doesn't like you, I mean."

"That was easily done. Selma Briggs and I had been sworn enemies since we went barefooted to the district school. She was bigger than the teacher then, and I called her Jumbo. She retaliated by calling me Whiffet. The years that had added to her bulk and coarseness had left me undersized, but a gentleman and (hem!) a scholar."

He sent a quick, sensitive glance into my eyes, and I bowed gravely. "Whenever we chanced to pass on the street, she would make some audible remark about me, to raise the laughter of the congenial friends around her, and her vulgar laugh would raise above them all and follow me farthest."

"Loathing her as I did, nothing except my great desire to join the Bachelors' club could have made me address her—let alone upon such a subject. But in those days when I wanted a thing I went it blind," as the saying is. Moreover, I was sure that Selma would consider my proposal a joke—perhaps the result of a wager—and this I knew would enrage her beyond measure."

He was silent so long, gazing miserably into space, that I was obliged to speak to him. He looked up pathetically and whispered:

"She said yes."

"And you?" I ventured.

"I am a gentleman," he returned, and I nodded.

"If it isn't—er" I began, after a long pause.

"Not at all," he answered. "She was mad to join the Matrons' club, that's all."

Before I could utter a word of sympathy, an untidy head appeared at the door and a coarse voice cried:

"John Hennerly, be them peas done yet?"

And as I passed through the gate I heard in gentle and refined tones:

"No, Selma; they'll be done in a minute."

Wife Who Is Past Redemption.

"Dar ain't no hope for muh wife," with a downward inflection remarked old Brother Roorback. "De lady is done headed straight for de Pit o' Tawment, and dar ain't no resumption for her. She's gone!"

"She's a Campbellite, sah, whilst I's a shoutin' Meferdist, muh'f. Well, dis mawnin' at breakfast we got to 'sputin' 'bout de merits o' dem two creeds, and I says: 'W'y, loogy, yuh, Lady! 'As a mattuh o' fact dem fetch-taked Campbellites ain't got no sense, and de mawnin' de syrup on her buckwheat cakes at de time. 'If dey had any sense dey wouldn't be Campbellites!' says I. And how did she answer der socked-lager? Huh!—she grabbed up dem cakes wid de syrup on 'em and slapped 'em in muh face! Yassah!—slung de whole drippin' bizness right smack in muh countenance! And I isn't gwine to show her de urror o' her ways no mo', needer. She's dems better go down to de pit widout muh 'istance; and I hopes 'twill be a lesson to her, too, sah!"

Wonder What Made Her Do It?

"A very singular incident happened at the theater last night."
"Yes? What was it?"
"A beautiful girl came in wearing a gorgeous gown."
"But what was singular about that?"
"Why, she came in fully fifteen minutes before it was time for the show to begin."

JUDGE FOR YOURSELF
Which is Better—Try an Experiment or Profit by a Lancaster Citizen's Experience.

Something new is an experiment.
Must be proved to be as represented.
The statement of a manufacturer is not convincing proof of merit.
But the endorsement of friends is.
Now supposing you had a bad back,
A lame, weak, or aching one,
Would you experiment on it?
You will read of many so-called cures
Endorsed by strangers from faraway places.
It's different when the endorsement comes from home.
Easy to prove local testimony.

Doan's Kidney Pills the best remedy thing wrong with the kidneys and back.

Doan's Kidney Pills are a safe remedy

MI-O-NA Stomach Tablets Banish All
Misery, Gas And Sourness

You know that most of the ailments named above come from an out of order stomach; of course you do.
If your food doesn't digest, but lays heavily on your stomach, it has started to ferment.

When it ferments it sets loose in the stomach poisonous gases which irritate the great nerve that leads directly to the brain from the stomach.

That irritation causes heartburn,
dizziness, nervousness, nervousness.
MI-O-NA will end all stomach misery, or money back. A large box costs only 50 cents and is sold by K. E. McRoberts & Son and druggists everywhere.

Correct!
It is incorrect to speak of the careless pedestrian in the present tense.
The careless pedestrian is dead and buried.—St. Louis Republic.

Long-Lived.
"Oh, yes, I come of a very longlived family. My father cut a third set of teeth when he was past eighty."
"That's nothing. My grandfather died of infantile paralysis when he was ninety-seven."

COLDS GO OVER NIGHT.
If your head is stuffed up and you have a hard cold you can quickly get rid of the misery.

First, look after the bowels; any good cathartic will do; then breathe Booth's HYOMEI which promptly kills germ life and heals the membrane.
Breathe HYOMEI (pronounce it High-o-me) in the daytime through the little hard rubber inhaler, and just before going to bed at night do this:
Pour a scant teaspoonful of HYOMEI into a kitchen bowl of boiling water, cover head and bowl with towel and breathe for several minutes the soothing, healing vapor that arises. This treatment is also fine for sore throat and catarrh. Complete HYOMEI outfit including inhaler, $1.00; extra bottles if needed, 50c and R. E. McRoberts & Son is authorized to refund your money if dissatisfied.

Burned the Wind.
"Sam, were you in that riot last the wind, Sam?" "No, sir. I didn't run like the wind, 'deed I didn't. But I passed two niggers that was running like the wind."—Argonaut.

A FEW
LITTLE
SMILES

A Saving Man.
Uncle William, who wasn't especially noted for his generosity, was accused in the village post office by his shrewd little nephew namesake.
"Say, uncle, this is my birthday.
Can't you give me five cents?" Conscious of the amused gaze of the onlookers, Uncle William slowly reached into his pocket, saying, "I did have a nickel, but," withdrawing his hand, "I guess I haven't got it now." "Oh, look again, uncle," said little Willie.
"If you had one you must have it yet."
Woman's Home Companion.

The Good Time Coming.
"Algernon," said the poet's wife, "I see they have started a magazine to make poetry popular."
"Yes, love."
"Do you think it will succeed?"
"It is too early to venture a prediction."
"Dear, I hope it will. How lovely it will be when you and I can have an automobile and I will not need to be ashamed any more when people ask me what business you are in."

No Chesterfield.
"Muggins has made a pile of money,
and now he's trying to get into society,
but the question of manners comes up.
Has he got any?" queried Bolivar.
"Muggins? Manners? Well, I should say not," retorted Slithers.
"Why, that man wouldn't give up his seat in a dentist's chair to a lady."— Harper's Weekly.

THERE YOU ARE.

Mrs. Henpeck—Do you think men are smarter than women?
Mr. Henpeck—Some men are.
Mrs. Henpeck—What men are smarter?
Mr. Henpeck—Single men.

Then What Did She Do?
"Fare," said the lady conductor.
As the rounder climbed onto her car.
"Fare?" said the rounder all smiling.
"Fare? You can bet that you are!"

Where Doves Disagree.
"What's the latest among suffragists?"
"Mrs. Wallaby called Mrs. Womba a deliberate and unqualified fibber."
"Dear me, have women come to that? What happened next?"
"Then they both cried, kissed and made up, and we all went to a bargain matinee."

For His Father's Good.
"Don't you ever stop," wrote a father to his son in college, "to consider how hard I have to work for the money you are spending?"
To which the son replied:
"Yes, but you have always assured me that hard work is the best thing in the world for any man."

Worthy of Tolerant.
"I should think you would object to your husband going away on those long fishing trips alone."
"I would, only he is always so meekly disposed to put up with almost anything for a while after he gets back from one of them."

What's the Use?
"Gadsbey says he and his wife had a prenuptial agreement."
"Does he? How is it working out?"
"Not very well, apparently. It seems that his wife decided as soon as they were married that the usual by-laws and regulations would be in effect."

A Change in Sentiment.
"Are you a friend of William Bliggins, that ne'er-do-well?"
"I should think not, indeed!"
"Then you'll hardly be interested to hear that he has inherited $500,000."
"What! Our dear old Bill!"

Easy Position.
"The lazy men in this establishment,
I am sure, envy guns."
"Why should they envy guns?"
"Because guns find constant employment only in being fired."

Truth and Progress.
Whoever hesitates to utter that which he thinks the highest truth, lest it should be too much in advance of the time, may reassure himself by looking at his acts from an impersonal point of view. . . . Not as adventurous will the wise man regard the faith which is in him. The highest truth he sees he will fearlessly utter. Knowing that, let what may come of it, he is thus playing his right part in the world—knowing that if he can effect the change he aims at —well, if not—well also; though not so well.—Herbert Spencer.

A LITTLE BIT
HUMOROUS

Stage an Exception.
Cyril Scott tells of a dinner he once attended at which Edwin Booth was the guest of honor. Mr. Booth was called on for a speech.
"What shall I speak of?" he asked.
He was a quiet man and hated speechmaking.
"Oh, just tell us about the stage;
something about the theater," someone said.
Booth laughed. "If you want to know about finance, ask a banker. But if you want to know anything about the stage, ask the barber or the hotel clerk—anyone except an actor."

The Missing Adjunct.
"There was a very disagreeable wait
at the Muggleton's wedding last evening. The bride was in tears, the bridegroom's collar melted, the pastor fell asleep in his study and the organist played, 'Oh, Promise Me,' eleven times."
"What in the world was the trouble?"
"Why, the moving picture man's auto struck a fire hydrant and his whole outfit went to smash."

Alot in the Distance.
"I shall take a lofty position in discussing public affairs," said the young man who is learning politics.
"That's right, son," replied Senator Sorghum. "Only don't soar so high into the chrysopeas that you are like an airship and the only impression people get of you is a small spot and a buzz."

PROOF.
Jigson—So your grandfather lived to be ninety years old, eh. Did he retain possession of his faculties until the end?
Jagson—Can't say. His will hasn't been read as yet.

A Noble Character.
Who never takes umbrellas
That don't belong to him.
Deserves to dwell in heaven
Among the seraphim.

Country Girl of Nowadays.
"Where are you going, my pretty maid?"
"I'm goin' a-milking, sir," she said,
"and I'm also pretty and I'm only eighteen. I'm just a country girl. I've never been to the city and I know what manners are. And if there's anything more you'd like to know just ask me."—Satire.

Human Chronometer.
The doting mother was telling the bachelor uncle about the wonderful baby.
"George is so regular in his habits," she said. "He wakes up crying at exactly 12 o'clock every night."
"A time bawl," said the bachelor uncle.

Black Hand Methods.
"I received a letter from a trust magnate today," said the manager of the campaign fund.
"What does he want?"
"Wants to contribute. Says he has hidden $5,000 in a hollow tree, and demands that we go and get it."

A Possibility.
Jinks—If I had not married I would be worth a million.
Binks—But I am single and penniless.
Jinks—Ah, but if you had married you might have learned to economize.

Two or Three.
Country Cousin—Well, I was in the Metropolitan museum this morning.
City Host—That's nothing to brag about. I know two or three fellows living right here in New York who have been there.—Smart Set.

His Idea.
"Don't you think we have laws enough already, senator?"
"Oh, yes; but if I don't let 'em know what I'm here for, I'll never get here again."

Not That Kind.
"I have a fine setter at home."
"Irish, English or Gordon?"
"None of the three."
"What is it, then?"
"Plymouth Rock."

A Mere Sputter.
She—Was he furious, dear, when you told him that we had been secretly married?
He—Not really furious; only sullous.—Judge

No More Dandruff Falling
Hair Gray Hair

Men and women—do you want a splendid head of luxuriant hair free from scalp itch and dandruff?
Do you want hair so bewitchingly radiant that it compels the admiration of all who see it?
Do you want a scalp as immaculately clean and bright as a minted coin?
If you do, get a 50-cent bottle of PAR-ISIAN Sage-to-day, at dealers everywhere. The girl with the Auburn hair is on every carton and bottle—Ask for it.

The Easy Task.
Let the man who complains because his work is hard remember that cheap people can take care of the easy tasks.

Nice Quiet Place.
"Did you find a nice quiet place to spend the season?" "Yes," replied Mr.
Growcher. "Everybody else in the family went away and I stayed home."

Down and Up.
"It's hard to keep a good man down."
Said some concurred pup:
But when he's in an aeroplane,
"It's hard to keep him up."

A Slight Mistake.
"Fine food display you have here. The samples taste good. Can I order some of this stuff?"
"Sir," said the horrified attendant, "that is adulterated food which we are exhibiting as a horrible example. How can you say that it tastes good?"

Physical Objections.
"My dear, we can't take such a dark apartment as this."
"Why not?"
"Aren't we going to do light house-keeping?"

Time to Go Home.

"Why do you say that?" pouted the bride.
"I've been taking stock and find I'm down to $2.65."

Proof.
"I know that man wanted to injure me. He looked at me so."
"But you can't prove anything by a look. There must be intent."
"Well, his look was intent."

Of Course.
"What is your favorite flower, duke?" asked the heiress. "But I ought to know that without asking."
"Well, what should it be?"
"The marigold."

Sweet.
"Gladys is such a sweet girl."
"Yes. She never regards people with contempt merely because they are old."

Still Have to Be Caught.
There are as good fish in the sea as ever were caught, but few of them are likely to try to crawl up into your lap.

HERE IT IS AGAIN.

Arthur Albro, the Russian tenor, dropped into a drug store near his home in Harlem and asked the clerk if he had some castor oil that would not taste.

The clerk replied that he had, and asked the comedian if he liked sarsaparilla.

"I do," replied Albro, "and rarely indulge in anything stronger."

The clerk gave Albro a glass of sarsaparilla, which he drank with relish.

Finally Albro asked the clerk for the castor oil.

"I gave it to you with the sarsaparilla," responded the clerk.

"Great heavens!" shrieked Albro. "I wanted it for my mother!"—Philadelphia Telegraph.

Drives Off A Terror.

The chief executioner of death in the winter and spring months is pneumonia. Its advance agents are colds and grip. In any attack by one of these maladies no time should be lost in taking the best medicine obtainable to drive it off. Countless thousands have found this to be Dr. King's New Discovery. "My husband believes it has kept him from having pneumonia three or four times," writes Mrs. George W. Place, Rawsonville, Vt., "and for coughs, colds and croup we have never found its equal. NOTES from MEADOWBROOK FARM

Cull the ewe flock.

Be careful in milking.

Sheep need care and feed.

Good fences are important.

Lime may be applied to the soil at any time.

The best seed corn is that grown on one's own farm.

Potatoes are as cheap this year as they will ever be again.

The dairy cow should essentially be a large and rich milker.

A coat of whitewash in the poultry house adds both beauty and profit.

Hogs running in the corn field are healthier than those shut in a pen.

To have horses of endurance give the colts a chance to develop their muscles.

Don't waste your time cutting corn for fodder after one good frost strikes it.

The only way to make sheep pay is to keep the best sheep and give them the best care.

Change of pasture makes fat cattle, they say. Variety in feed also makes cows better milkers.

The value of a hog depends upon his ability to make good pork. This is equally true of all breeds.

Are you keeping the boys and girls properly supplied with good "tools" to do their work in the schoolroom?

Your lambs ought to be big enough now to bring a good price. Let them go and give the rest a better chance.

The hay stock without a good top is just about on a par with the corn shock that has nearly twisted down.

Feeding the drop apples to the stock will save much grain and act as a good appetizer for the animals.

Because a cow is a hearty eater is no sign that she is profitable, but all large and profitable cows are hearty eaters.

Millet should be cut before the seeds are ripe, in fact, after it is well headed out it is a candidate for the mover.

Don't leave the sheep in a dry, short pasture. Give them a chance in a fresh pasture or give a good grain ration.

Corn is ready to be cut for silage when the grain is in the dent and glazed but can still be broken with the thumb nail.

If you produce your own seed grain it is important to select it early out of the best part of the crop and take good care of it.

The fatality among pigs during the abnormally heated spell was in many cases increased, if not wholly caused, by putrid swill barrels.

Lung troubles in swine are frequently the result of dust and filth snuffed through the nostrils while feeding on the ground.

Pigs that have been properly grown up to five months with big strong frames, can be rounded up quickly for market with a ration consisting largely of corn.

If more sheep were kept by farmers right along, instead of having them when feed stuffs are high in price and sheep vice versa, more money could be realized.

Keep your eye open for a better ram than you have been using. No use tramping the same ground over year after year. Get a little farther along the road to better things.

There is no better balancer for stock wintered on corn fodder than cowpeas. They furnish just the elements that are lacking in all feeds like corn, cane or kafir fodder and timothy hay.

Churning troubles appear as soon as cold weather sets in. But not all the churning troubles are due to cold weather; the cow that has been giving milk for a long time is apt to furnish cream that is slow to "come."

Feed is plenty this fall and cheaper than it has been for some time. This does not mean that it will stay cheap all winter for should it be a hard winter the feed would lessen fast. The time to buy feed, if any is needed, is in the fall.

Wanted a Winner.

The man at the table—Look here, waiter! That lobster is without a claw! How's that?

Waiter—You see, they're so fresh these lobsters, they fight with each other in the kitchen.

The man at the table—Well, take that one away and bring me one of the winners.—Judge.

A Quaker Oath.

Two small boys in a family of Friends, writes a contributor, had a disagreement, during which the older boy became very much incensed.

Finally, no longer able to control himself, he took his brother by the shoulder and shook him, with the exclamation, "Oh, thee little you, thee!"

Then as the enormity of his offense came over him, he said, in a changed voice, "Don't tell mother I swore."—Youth's Companion.

MORE APPROPRIATE.

Cholly—The idea of Grace leaving me and saying she had other fish to fry! Do you think that was proper? Marion—I should say not! She should have said she had other lobsters to broil.

Editors Are So Mean.

A bard who sang in summer time Composed a pleading bit of rhyme. Though autumn's come, to his regret, He hasn't sold that jingle yet.

Why Not?

"I'm feeling well today, my mind is at ease, and my business is good."

"Why are you going around telling people that?"

"Why, we always put up a holler when things go wrong. Why shouldn't we occasionally admit that things are going right?"

Not for Him.

"And," concluded the Sunday school teacher, "if you are a good boy, Tommy, you will go to Heaven and have a gold crown on your head."

"Not much," said Tommy; "I had one of them things put on a tooth onct."—Ladies' Home Journal.

Thrifty.

"I presume old Gurnley is a man who has no trouble in making both ends meet."

"Pshaw! There's never a month rolls round that he doesn't make them lap over."

Would Be a Pity.

Proud Pa—I want Willie to be a politician.

Friend Jones—Why?

Proud Pa—He's so big and strong I'd hate to have him ruin his physique working.

BOTH PHONES 964.

LEYINGTON, KY., DEC. 21-1912—Sales of tobacco on our market this week is 1,957,100 pounds, with a general average on the entire sale of $14.15. Sales on the market since the opening date, Nov. 19th, is 5,636,140 pounds, with a general average on the entire offerings of $12.74; prices ranging from 4 to $61.00.

On Wednesday of this week we had the first good tobacco season that has come since the crop was ready to move, which caused the receipts of tobacco for the latter part of this week to be heavy. Prices, under heavier offerings, showed a stronger tendency, and especially was this the case on good to fine tobaccos, and more tobacco selling above $20.00 than heretofore, which bears out our prediction that good to fine tobacco would sell for higher prices. Red tobacco of all grades sold better this week than at any time since the crop begun to move, with more competition on this class of tobacco than has previously prevailed. Colory types of all classes show a stronger tendency and fully as high as at any time.

Summing the market as a whole, it is certainly satisfactory, and justifies the selling of tobacco as rapidly as proper condition and handling will permit.

Sales adjourned on the 20th for the holidays resuming on Thursday, January 2-1913. All of the warehouses belonging to this Company will remain open during this time for the receiving and unloading of tobacco for sale on Jan. 2nd.
